

HIST 2753

Africa and the World

An introduction to African history, investigating historical debates upon the significance of Africans in human cultural development, ancient and medieval civilizations, and modern global society and economy. Topics include ancient North Africa and Egypt, expansion of Niger-Congo and Bantu cultures, formation of Islamic Empires, and assessing Africa's place in the world during the Atlantic Slave Trade.
